

Legislature to Meet Wednesday

Party Caucuses Tuesday to Select Leaders

Money Problems, Scandal Reforms Will Top Issues

SPRINGFIELD (UP) — The 70th General Assembly convenes Wednesday with an apparent shortage of revenues and Hodge scandal reforms among the biggest problems it must deal with.

The new assembly, first under the 1955 reapportionment, will have 235 members. Republicans will control both houses.

The first order of business, before the six-month session actually starts, will be party caucuses Tuesday to select leaders.

The Republicans hold a 38-20 edge over the Democrats in the Senate, and the Democrats will lose one more seat when Sen. William G. Clark resigns this week to take a seat in the House. The Republican margin in the House is 94-83.

The Republicans have already re-elected their 1955 leaders in the Senate, Arthur J. Bidwill, River Forest, as president pro tem, and George E. Drach, Springfield, as whip.

Wood Re-election Anticipated

Speaker Warren L. Wood (R-Plainfield) is expected to be re-elected speaker at the GOP caucus. Clark and Rep. Joseph L. de la Cour, both Chicago Democrats, are most prominently mentioned for the job of House minority leader. Sen. William J. Lynch, Chicago, is considered a cinch for re-election as Senate minority leader.

Gov. William G. Stratton will present his program for the new legislative session in his inaugural address Jan. 14 when he will be sworn in for his second term before a joint session of the assembly.

Money is expected to be the biggest problem facing the Legislature. Stratton has indicated he will try to avoid any tax increase, particularly in the 2½ per cent state sales tax.

But Sen. Everett R. Peters (R-St. Joseph), chairman of the Budgetary Commission, has said budget requests are far above revenues and "I don't know where the money is coming from."

Predicts Sales Tax Boost

Roger E. Henn, of the Illinois Taxpayers Federation, said a tax increase, possibly of a full cent in the sales tax, appears inevitable. Henn said the state budget for the coming biennium probably will hit the two-billion-dollar mark for the first time in history.

The Illinois Public Aid Commission has already announced it will ask an emergency appropriation of about 36 million dollars to make up a deficiency in its 280-million-dollar appropriation for the current biennium.

The School Problems Commission also will be asking for an increase.

Explosion Rocks Colorado Town; 3 Killed, 17 Hurt

RIDGWAY, Colo. (UP) — A tremendous explosion which rocked this small southwestern Colorado town Sunday, killing 3 persons and injuring 17, was blamed today on a gas storage tank beneath the burning county maintenance garage.

Four of the injured were still in serious condition. Sheriff Harry R. Scott of Ouray County blamed the explosion in the Ouray County garage on a gas storage tank located under the burning building.

"Some said it sounded like a powder blast, but I don't think so," he said.

The explosion occurred 15 minutes after discovery of a fire in the building. A crowd of about 200 spectators and volunteer firemen had gathered when the blast occurred.

The Rev. Ernest Ammon, pastor of the First Baptist church in Carrier Mills, has been called as Saline Baptist Missionary to fill a post left vacant by the resignation of the Rev. Floyd Lacy, who has accepted a pastorate of the Tamm Baptist church.

The appointment of Rev. Ammon was upon a unanimous recommendation by a committee appointed by Moderator Rev. Howard Todd Taylor of the Saline Baptist Mission Board. The committee was composed of Rev. J. D. McCarty, Rev. George Baines and Rev. Olen Clarida.

Rev. Ammon has been pastor of the Carrier Mills First Baptist church since April 24, 1948, and previously to that he served five years at the Bankston Fork Baptist church during which time he also was an elementary school teacher.

Rev. Ernest Ammon

Saline association is composed of 33 churches with more than 8,000 members. Rev. Olen Clarida, associate clerk to Rev. Ammon, assumed the duties as association clerk at the board meeting Jan. 4, when Rev. Ammon accepted the call as missionary.

Nine Area Counties, School Districts Receive Forest Funds

Nine area counties and school districts are richer by $23,789.90, it was announced today by Kenneth J. Gray, congressman from the 25th District of Illinois.

Gray said a check totaling this amount and representing 25 per cent of the cash receipts of the Shawnee National Forest during the fiscal year 1956 was mailed to the State of Illinois. The state distributes the money to the counties in proportion to the amount of national forest land within them. It must be used, according to law, for schools and roads. The Forest receipts come from sale of timber and miscellaneous land uses, according to Congressman Gray.

Boy, 14, Stabs 8-Year-Old Girl 115 Times; Faces Murder Charge

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UP) — A 14-year-old boy faced a murder charge today for stabbing an 8-year-old girl 115 times with his pocket knife in an attack that apparently had no motive.

"I don't know," said sandy-haired Roger Brown when police asked him why he killed Rose Ann White. "I just did it."

The girl had been missing from her Suisun home, where Roger had often been a babysitter, since late Saturday. Her body was found at 3:30 a. m. Sunday under a clump of weeds near a railway track.

The girl's head had been smashed by a jagged rock and her body slashed by "so many stab wounds that we weren't able to count them all," a sheriff's deputy said.

An autopsy disclosed she had received 115 stab wounds, seven of which had pierced her heart. She had also suffered three skull fractures.

Dr. Hal De May said there was no evidence of rape. The girl's panties had been removed and buried at some distance from the body.

"I got my fingerprints on them, turning her over," Roger said. Roger said he went to Rose Ann's house on Saturday afternoon to watch television. After a while, he said, they went out to play.

"She was chasing me and fell right over me and hit her head on a rock," he said. She lay on the ground, apparently unconscious. Then, Roger said, he picked up a rock and hit her on the head. He dragged her partly up the railroad embankment, took out his pocket knife and began stabbing her. He removed her panties and then buried her.

Then, the boy said, he went home and worked on his stamp collection for a while. Later, he had dinner, watched television and went to bed.

Three Injured Near Shawneetown

Three Kentucky men were injured, one critically, when their car ran off old Route 13 west of Old Shawneetown and north of the new approach to the bridge early yesterday morning.

Guthrie Alexander, state policeman, identified the trio as Fred Howard, 30, driver of the auto, and H. G. Fellows, 43, of Morganfield, and Kenneth Caldwell, 43, of Uniontown.

Caldwell was the most seriously hurt, suffering a punctured lung. All were taken to the Ferrell hospital in Eldorado.

High School Boy Killed, Girl Friend is Raped

SIKESTON, Mo. (UP) — A 35-year-old suspect was questioned today in the shooting death of a high school football star and the rape of his young girl friend.

Police said the suspect, a Negro, was arrested Sunday night and taken "elsewhere" for questioning because of high feeling in the area over the crime. No charges have been placed against the suspect.

Several other persons were picked up for questioning in a mass house-to-house search by about 400 police officers, but they were released later.

Killed by a .32 caliber bullet Saturday night was John Malugen, 18, a top player on the high school football team at nearby Charleston, Mo.

Officers said Malugen and the girl, June Castleberry, 17, Sikeston, were seated on the porch of a home when the man, described as a stout, 5-foot-11-inch Negro approached.

They said when Malugen told the man to leave, he stepped back, pulled out a pistol and shot the youth in the heart. The assailant then dragged the girl through a cotton field about 50 feet from the empty house and raped her.

The girl said she managed to free herself and fled to a highway where she was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to a hospital here for treatment.

About 400 city police, state highway patrolmen and deputies from three sheriff's offices fanned out over this residential area in an intensive search for the killer.

Historical Society To See Slides Made By Late Dr. Swan

The Saline County Historical society will meet in the club room of the Harrisburg Public library Tuesday, Jan. 8, at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. James Bond of Galatia will give a humorous reading, following which will be shown some old slides featuring scenic spots of Saline county and southern Illinois.

The slides were made by the late Dr. W. S. Swan of this city and are of the old glass type, being developed 30 to 40 years ago. Dr. Swan had the Eastman Kodak agency in Harrisburg and furnished this area with their supplies. He carried on his hobby of photographing Illinois scenic beauty and making slides of beauty spots.

George Davenport and the late Val Rathbone were frequent partners of Dr. Swan on these jaunts to further his hobby. James Scott, a nephew of Mrs. Swans, has a number of these slides at present.

Anyone who accompanied Dr. Swan on these trips are invited to be guests of the society that evening and are urged to contribute any information they may have relevant to the Swan slides.

The social hour will be in charge of Mrs. Amelia Aaron, chairman, and her committee: Mrs. Nelle Myers, Mrs. Lois Gates and Mrs. James P. Garner.

She was taken to Lightner hospital where she was treated for burns on both legs beneath the knees.

Firemen who went to the scene at 9:35 a. m. said she was blown down by a blast in her apartment. The explosion apparently was around a hot water tank, they said.

The fire was out when the fire truck arrived.

There was smoke damage to the apartment.

Mid-East Doctrine Will Help Prevent War: Dulles

Hodge Given More Time to Restore Funds

Guards Bring Ex-Auditor Before Federal Judge

CHICAGO (UP) — Orville E. Hodge today won another two months to dig up money and repay some of the 2½ million dollars in state funds he stole while he was Illinois state auditor.

Two husky guards brought Hodge here from Menard State Prison for a half-hour hearing before Federal Judge John P. Barnes on whether Hodge is restoring the money to the state treasury.

Barnes continued the case to March 4, after issuing a stern warning to Hodge that whether he spends an additional 10 years of his life behind bars or on probation hinges on how he restores the funds.

Hodge's guards handcuffed him again after the hearing, and prepared to leave for Pontiac State Prison to spend the night. They plan to drive to Springfield Tuesday for an appearance by Hodge before a federal grand jury investigating another phase of the case.

When he sentenced Hodge last summer, Barnes gave him federal terms totaling 20 years. But the judge said 10 years of that would be on probation, if Hodge made restitution of as much money as he could.

No figures were given in the brief hearing before Barnes on how much Hodge has repaid so far. However, state officials have reported they have recovered only about $80,000.

Arthur M. Fitzgerald of Springfield, Hodge's lawyer, said he felt Hodge "has done everything he could" to restore the funds, though he had not had a chance to talk with Hodge recently.

Fitzgerald noted that many of the assets Hodge owned when the scandal broke have been tied up by suits filed by Hodge's wife, Margaret, who claims the properties are hers.

Marie McDonald Tells of Ordeal; Says Kidnaping Could Be Inside Job

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Marie McDonald said today that she thinks "the case of the kidnapped 'body'" was planned well in advance because her two alleged abductors "walked into my house as if they had lived there all their lives."

In an exclusive interview with United Press, the 32-year-old blonde gave her version of a 24-hour ordeal which she claimed began last Thursday night when two zoot-suit-type youths kidnapped her from her $65,000 home.

Miss McDonald said an "enemy" may have arranged the kidnaping because "any one else would have taken my baby."

Los Angeles detectives said they know more about the case than they have revealed and "in a few days we should have it all out in the open. We have to lay all the facts before our superiors first."

Marie's theory as to who may have master-minded the bizarre kidnaping was one point of her story that she revealed for the first time since returning to her Encino home late Saturday by private ambulance from India where she was found wandering along a desert road.

Pushed Open Gate

"They must have pushed open the electric gate," she said as she rested in the bedroom of her early American-style house.

"Anybody can—I do sometimes when I forget my key. The boxer didn't bark. He's like that. He even walked with us all the way to the gate when they took me away."

"Those two men came in, calm as anything, and knew every inch of the house. They made me get

Two boys were born last week at the hospital, but both parents were residents of the Carrier Mills township.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wren of Harrisburg were the winners of the 1956 derby with their baby which was also a boy being born on Jan. 3.

Secretary Asks Quick Approval By Congress

White House Names Richards Special Ass't on Mid East

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the Eisenhower doctrine for the Middle East is designed "to stop World War III before it starts."

Testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Dulles urged quick congressional endorsement of the administration's program of U. S. military protection and economic aid to guard the Middle East from Communist seizure.

"Until the Congress has actually spoken," Dulles said, "there is doubt in the Middle East and there may be doubt in the Soviet Union. If those doubts persist, then the danger persists and grows."

"If we elect to wait and see and then decide, the waiting period will greatly heighten (the Middle East's) vulnerability to both direct attack by overwhelming force, and to indirect aggression."

The White House meanwhile announced the appointment of former Rep. James P. Richards (D-SC) to serve as a special assistant to the President on Middle Eastern problems.

Richards, who was chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee in the last Congress, will head a special mission to the Middle East to explain the Eisenhower doctrine, in an effort to break down Arab suspicion and answer Russian propaganda that it is disguised U. S. colonialism.

He also will head a special group of government officials working on the project and carry out liaison with Congress.

Mr. Eisenhower outlined the new Middle East policy before a joint session of Congress Saturday. He asked standby authority to use U. S. troops to defend any Middle East nation which seeks our help, and permission to supply military and economic aid to the area at a rate of about 600 million dollars over the next three years.

Dulles said the first reaction of Arab countries to the "Eisenhower doctrine" was "not favorable." He said these countries were "misrepresented" by gross Soviet "misrepresentations" of the plan and therefore did not understand it.

He said, however, that he has "good reason" to believe that all the Arab nations, including Egypt and Syria, will soon "welcome" the President's plan. The atmosphere of antagonism to the program, he said, has already "markedly changed" since the Arab nations read the President's speech to Congress.

Dulles said a Communist breakthrough in the Middle East would be a "major disaster" for the whole world. In addition to its immediate harmful effects, he said, it would encourage Soviet rulers to "resort everywhere" to more aggressive policies.

Dulles declined to say in public session exactly what area the President intended to cover in his Middle East declaration to defend the "general areas of the Middle East."

Dulles agreed to provide this information in closed session.

'Eisenhower Doctrine'

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
President Eisenhower's proposal to seek standby authority to commit U. S. military forces to defense of the Middle East is a measure of how gravely we view Communist penetration of the area.

The plan, of course, is certain to come under the closest congressional scrutiny and to meet sizable opposition. But the informed guesses indicate it probably will win approval.

It is bound to be welcomed by those who believe that the best way to avoid a general war is to draw a line giving the Soviet Union clear notice how far it dare go.

Some objectors will insist that if we make this commitment, stretching our possible active defense area to include one more trouble spot, we may be pulling our lines too thin. Others will question whether such means will bar the kind of economic and political inroads which have worked well for the Reds elsewhere.

In recent weeks we have gained much renewed stature in Asia and Africa as champions of national independence. To hold those gains, to keep the taint of imperialism off our policies, we should have to stress the purely defensive nature of the proposed commitment.

Whatever attitudes and emotions Mr. Eisenhower's plan may stir, one thing is definite. There is a need for new policy—or at least old policy in new dress. This attempt to fill that need. On those who object it would seem incumbent to offer counter-proposals of equal or greater substance.

Ike's Second-Term Goal: Peace

Before we compelled his retirement, Sir Winston Churchill's great dream was to achieve as much for peace as he had gained in war. Perhaps President Eisenhower's position is not too different as he nears the start of his second term. Peace is also his great goal.

Most information suggests it was the wish to work longer toward that objective that persuaded him to run again despite two illnesses.

What clearly dominates the President's thinking is the conviction that nuclear warfare would be ruinous to victor and vanquished alike, and must therefore never be permitted to happen.

The President has no magic peace formula. He is feeling his way, like everyone else who is troubled over the atomic peril. But he believes, with evident good reason, that his personal prestige as the leader of the United States may exert a force for peace in critical times that others might not.

His stand for principle in the Middle East crisis, his insistent reliance on the United Nations, these are examples of the careful course Mr. Eisenhower is trying to chart.

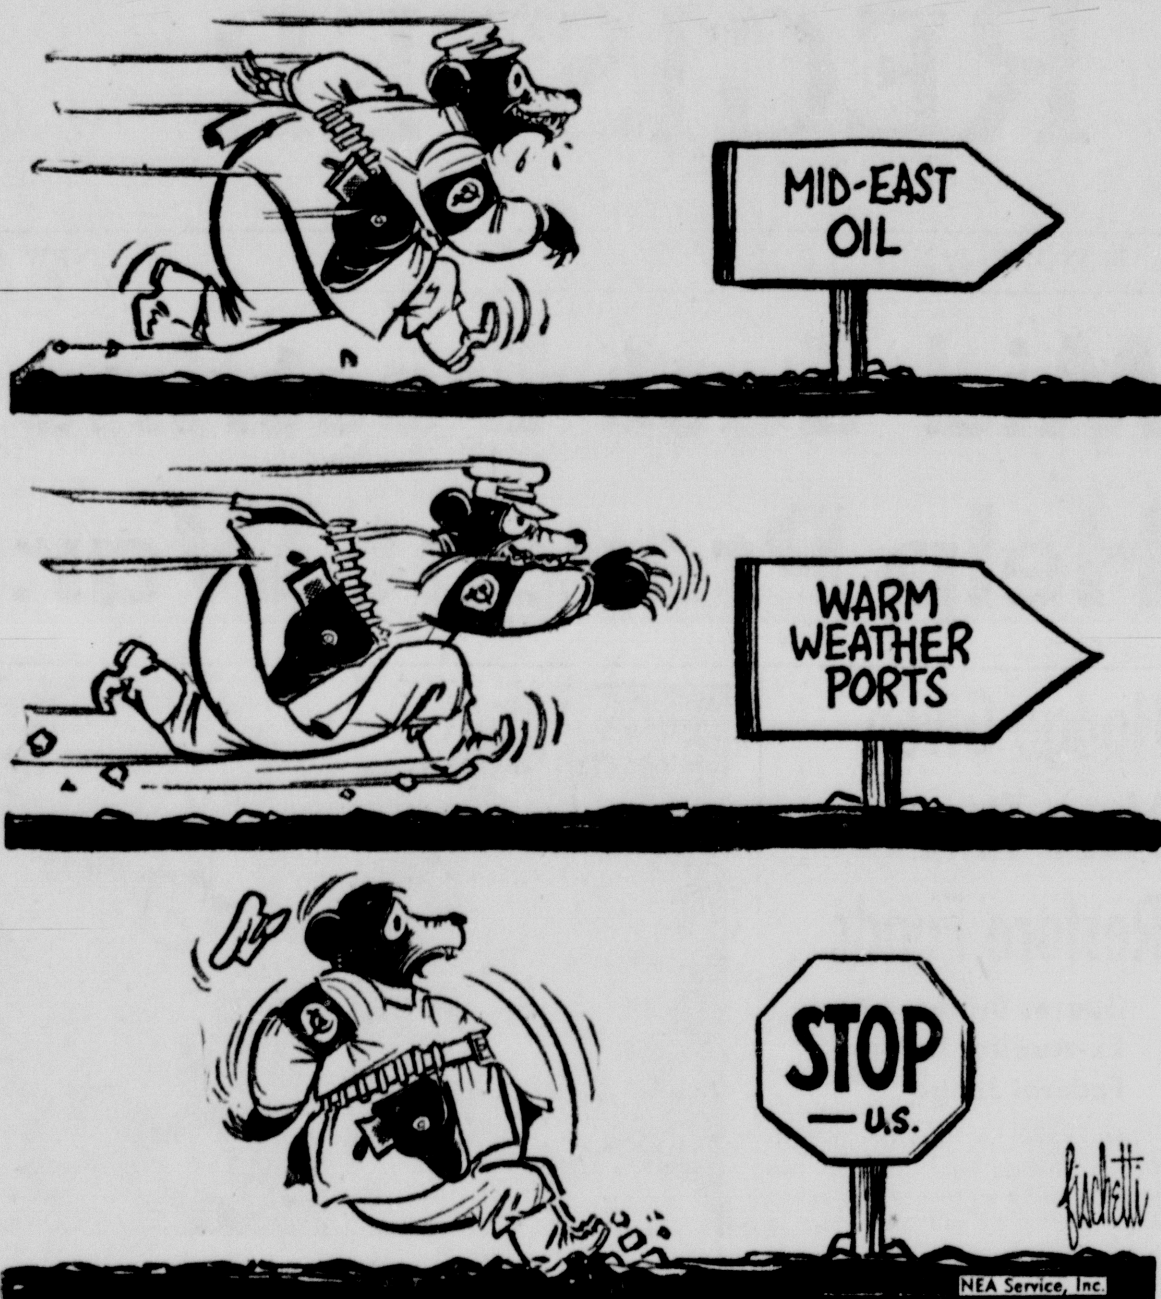

He wants to persuade the neutral, uncommitted nations of Asia and Africa that, while we must maintain a stout military posture so long as a threat to our safety exists, we nevertheless will devote full energies to the search for peaceful solutions.

He wants, too, to persuade even the hostile Communist countries that neither America nor any of its free-world friends seeks to destroy other nations.

At Geneva in 1955 the President made a daring start toward winning the confidence of suspicious Communist leaders. The initial promise never has been realized in concrete proposals for settlement of the world's outstanding issues. But he declines to abandon hope.

Sir Winston was denied fulfillment of his dream. No one dares hazard whether President Eisenhower will come any closer. But he approaches this final phase of his task with great dedication and an immense store of good will among almost all the peoples of the world.

Stop Sign

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Ike's Session With Congressional Leaders Was Grim; He Was Cross-Examined Extensively On So-Called 'Eisenhower Doctrine'; Dulles Apologizes For News Leak.

WASHINGTON — White House conferences with congressional leaders have changed since the days of Roosevelt and Truman. During their twenty-year period conferences seldom lasted longer than an hour, during which the President did most of the talking. Cabinet members were not often present. Roosevelt wisecracked, joked with congressional leaders.

Today these conferences have become grim seminars in American government lasting half a day, sometimes longer.

When congressional leaders were ushered into the White House on New Year's Day they winced when they saw four cabinet members, four bureau chiefs and the vice president lined up as members of the "Eisenhower faculty" to lecture them.

Throughout the long, four-hour, closed-door session there was only one light note. It came when Arthur Larson, new head of the U. S. Information Agency, complained about lack of sufficient personnel.

"We need to expand our campaign of truth more than ever," Larson explained, "but we have difficulty getting sufficient appropriations from Congress."

"Maybe that's because we felt you are not appointing good deserving Democrats," chided Speaker Sam Rayburn. Mr. Sam had been grumpy and glum all through the meeting. At this point the conference relaxed.

Most sensational statement came from Eisenhower that Prime Minister Nehru had told him: "In spite of everything, Nasser is the best Egyptian there is."

"Do you agree with that, Mr. President?" asked Senator Smith of New Jersey.

The President hesitated, tossed the whole matter off with a laugh.

COMPLAINT ON LEAKS

Here is a boiled-down chronological account of what happened at this highly secret meeting.

The President opened the meeting by praising the Democrats for their bipartisan cooperation. If any member of his administration made partisan politics out of foreign policy, he wanted to know about it. He then explained that Secretary Dulles wanted to outline a two-point program to fill the vacuum in the Middle East.

Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson interrupted to explain that they wouldn't be able to take it up immediately because of the Senate fight on Rule 22. Ike mumbled that "he didn't know anything about the rule battle."

Congressman McCormack suggested they make February 1 the target date for completing action on the President's program. Dulles cleared his throat, was about to say something, but the President quickly blurted: "That is agreeable to me."

Senator Johnson then complained about the Eisenhower Doctrine news leak.

"We are glad to confer with you, Mr. President," Johnson said, "but frankly it is not very pleasing to read all about your mid-East proposal before we get here."

"I'm sorry about that," replied the President, "but in spite of anything you can do about it, there are bound to be leaks. I've been fighting against it ever since I've been here."

Secretary Dulles volunteered that "after the first story broke" he had given a background briefing to some newsmen. This confession was greeted with knowing silence. Congressional leaders had previously learned that Dulles himself leaked the first story to the New York Times, with the O. K. of the President. Following this, they learned that he had invited other pet newsmen to his home.

DULLES WARNS

Dulles then began his own lecture. He wound up with an appeal that something had to be done to fill the vacuum created by the "misadventure of Britain and France."

"If we don't fill this vacuum," Dulles warned, "Russia will."

Someone asked what Dulles considered the main Soviet threat. He replied that we don't expect any immediate overt action from the Soviets, but we expect them to try to take over the governments of Syria, Jordan, Egypt, and the Sudan by subversion. He stressed that our policy must be "flexible enough to combat all types of aggression."

Dulles revealed that the Suez Canal would not be cleared as fast as the United States thought. He said it probably would not be completely opened until May 1. He also explained there was no final decision on the exact foreign aid for the Middle East. But he gave a tentative figure of $350,000,000. (This has been increased to $400,000,000.)

Congressman Taber of New York, the famed economist, interrupted to say he wanted Dulles to be ready to justify all expenditures in this area.

IKE CROSS-EXAMINED

Finally the leaders were given a chance to cross-examine the President on his mid-East doctrine.

"Mr. President," inquired Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, the Democratic House leader, "don't you have this authority anyway? Is it necessary to come to Congress for this?"

The President replied that under a liberal construction of his powers perhaps he had. But he preferred to act jointly with Congress.

He said he did not want to include border incidents between Israel and the Arab states, but only those where Russia actively intervened through volunteers or otherwise.

"How are we going to prove that 'volunteers' are Communists and that they are supported by Russia?" he was asked. He replied that this would have to be worked out at further meetings with congressional leaders.

Money Owned by Americans Climbs To New Record

WASHINGTON — The amount of money owned by Americans climbed to a new record of $40,600,000,000 in November.

The Federal Reserve Board reported Thursday that overall consumer credit increased by $35,000,000 during the month. However, this was about $100,000,000 less than in November, 1955, when on-the-cuff buying hit a record for that year.

IKE'S SECOND INAUGURATION:

'Consent of the Governed' is Theme; It Will Be Exclusive, Expensive

INAUGURAL PARADE ROUTE: From the Capitol to the White House—and from $3.50 to $18.75 for a seat along the way.

(First of Two Dispatches)

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—“Consent of the Governed” is the official theme of President Eisenhower's second inaugural celebration.

But the theme “more exclusive, more expensive,” will be the realistic one for the 100,000 visitors who will be here to take part in one or more of the three-day events, Jan. 19-21.

Four years ago when Ike's oath-taking heralded the Republicans' return to the White House for the first time in 20 long years, the inaugural was an exuberant, mink-clad mass meeting.

This one will be more mink-clad, less exuberant and definitely not a mass meeting. And the gate crashers might as well stay home.

Four years ago it was estimated that a visiting couple could do the three days up right on $360, not including transportation to and from Washington. This time the same couple wanting to do it up right will have to spend $619.

For example: The price of the choice parade seats has gone from $15 to $18.75. For any of the four inaugural balls you'd be a peasant if you didn't buy a pair of box seats for $125. For the festival—featuring Hollywood stars—two of the better seats cost $24. Two silver souvenir medals will cost $55. Better concert seats will cost $22 a pair. And a respectable suite in a good hotel here will cost $200.

Four years ago a man could have gotten away with bringing only a tux, or in a pinch just a blue serge. This time he'll have to have both white-tie-and-tails and a tuxedo, or he won't get into all the events. White for the ball. Tux for the concert and other receptions.

Technically, the Inaugural Ball is the most glamorous event of the whole affair, climaxing as it does the three-day celebration. And it gives the gals an opportunity to flash their finest gown and most glittering jewels.

This year there will be four separate balls—at the National Guard Armory and Sheraton Park, Statler and Mayflower hotels. Ike, Mamie and the Vice President and Pat will appear at all four of the dances and the cabinet and other top administration officials will be distributed equally among the parties.

But only a total of 7,300 couples will be given invitations. Four years ago 10,500 couples received invitations, paid for them, and used them. This has meant a harsh pruning of guest lists, with some feelings bound to be ruffled. But it may result in some dancing at the dance, which is rare at this party.

Even the big parade is being made twice as exclusive as the previous one. Only half of the 30,000 persons who paraded four years ago will be permitted to make the grand strut down Pennsylvania Avenue and past the Presidential reviewing stand. This is to make the event shorter and less tiring for the spectators.

An innovation at this inaugural is another super-exclusive reception “For Official Distinguished Ladies.” It is being held in the fancy Pan-American Union. Only wives of top government officials in Washington, wives of governors and women who are prominent in the GOP in the various states are invited.

This is one of the few events for which there is no charge to the “invited” guests. But only 1,500 women will be asked, making it the most exclusive official event of all.

Thanks to the exclusivity—and the cost—which the inaugural committee is building into the affair the usual shortage of hotel rooms is not expected to develop. More visitors will be dropping into town for one day or one event and leave, without staying overnight, officials say. There will still be special Pullman trains on sidings providing accommodations for many of the visitors for the three days and most residents of the city will have out-of-town guests.

A hold-down on the type of hilarity which featured his first inaugural is President Eisenhower's own idea. He told members of the committee that he thought the whole event should be more dignified and serious than it was four years ago.

In addition, the fact that one of the days includes a Sunday creates a greater religious emphasis. There will be special services in every church.

The only big event which is not more exclusive this year is the actual swearing-in ceremony to be held in front of the Capitol. The stands will hold 15,000 persons, the same number they accommodated four years ago.

Transportation Endangered By Difficulties of Railroads

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — To anyone who got tangled up in the great fog over the eastern half of the U. S.—and the Christmas weekend traffic jam that resulted — it must have been obvious that something needs to be done about America's transportation system.

As one railroad man summed it up neatly: "The airlines are getting too much business. It's more than the railroads can handle when the planes don't fly."

Or as Ogden Nash put it in a New Yorker poem:

"Sometimes on trains I'm surrounded

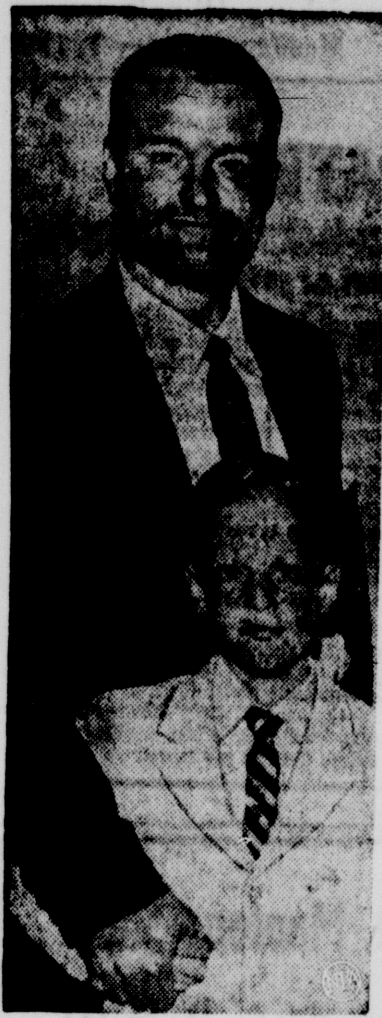

By people whose planes have been grounded.
That's the only trouble with trains.
When it rains, when it smogs,
You get people from planes."

Nobody expects the railroads to be reduced to providing a mere stand-by service for the airlines when planes are grounded, but that's what happened just before Christmas. And somehow, the railroads managed to get everyone where he was going.

THIS SITUATION worries railroad management and it bothers the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington. They wonder what would happen if the United States got into another war, with all big transport planes drafted for military service.

In the depression year of 1933, U. S. railroads operated at a 16-billion-passenger-mile level. In 1944 it was 96 billion passenger miles—six times as great.

Traffic dropped to 65 billion passenger miles in 1946, to 45 billion in 1947, to 35 billion in 1949 and 32 billion in 1950 and 1953. In the last three years the passenger business has leveled off at 28 to 29 billion passenger miles a year.

SKELTON'S SON STRICKEN—Richard Skelton, 9, son of Comedian Red Skelton, is suffering from leukemia, according to UCLA Medical Center authorities. The lad is shown with his father prior to departure for the Hawaiian Islands last June, when it was thought that a change of climate might benefit what was believed then to have been an anemic condition. George Jennings, Former Resident, Dies in Michigan

George Jennings, 51, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Jennings of this city, died of a heart ailment New Year's Day at St. Joseph's hospital, near Pontiac, Mich., where he had been under treatment for his condition. He had been employed by Fisher Body in Pontiac for the past 18 years, but grew up in Harrisburg and his wife is the former Ruby Renshaw of this city.

They have a son, Norman, and three daughters, Mrs. Regina Hanks, Mrs. Della Rohm and Miss Linda Jennings, all residing in and near Pontiac.

His parents and a sister, Mrs. Clyde Jones, and her two daughters, Mabel and Barbara, from East Alton, with an aunt, Mrs. Ruby Irvin, Santa Ana, Calif., who was visiting here when news of his death arrived, attended his funeral. The service was held last Friday at 2 p. m. and Mr. and Mrs. Jennings returned to their home in Harrisburg Saturday.

Airliner Crashes; One Person is Killed, Nine Hurt

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Authorities today investigated the scattered wreckage of an American Airlines plane in which one person was killed and nine were injured when it crashed during a routine landing approach.

Injured fatally in the wreck of the twin-engine Convair Sunday was Mrs. Nellie Tobler, 70, Tulsa. The injured, taken to Hillcrest and St. John's Hospitals, were reported in "fair" condition.

The plane, carrying a crew of three and seven passengers, crashed in a farm pasture while in visual range of the airport. Capt. Wesley Mims, 36, Tulsa, the pilot, was preparing to make an instrument landing.

Benson Denies Democratic Soil Bank Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson today denied Democratic charges that the administration used "soil bank" payments to try to influence the midwestern farm vote in the November election.

Benson told the House Agriculture committee it "should not be particularly surprising" that a major share of the payments last fall went to midwest corn growers. He said Iowa and Nebraska farmers put large acreages into the program because their crop was seriously threatened by drought in much of the two states.

Benson appeared before the committee as it launched a week-long public study of the soil bank.

Old Shawneetown Man Suffers Blow on Head; Found on Road

Gallatin County Sheriff Millard Holloway today said he still was unable to learn from Joe Dillard, about 60, of Old Shawneetown, just what caused a blow on the head of his head last week.

Dillard was found on a gravel road north of Old Shawneetown and Sheriff Holloway said he had either been struck by somebody or had been hit by a car.

The injured man was taken to Ferrell hospital in Eldorado, where he remains a patient. Holloway said he expected him to be able to talk in the next few days.

OUT OUR WAY

To Refuel Sub Nautilus After 50,000 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's first atomic-powered submarine, the Nautilus, is about to be refueled for the first time now that it has traveled a record-breaking 50,000-plus miles over a two-year period.

The Navy has decided to refuel the Nautilus to keep it up to peak performance. It presumably could go even further on its original load of enriched uranium, but it would be operating at reduced efficiency.

The refueling process will consist of replacing the present uranium slugs in the ship's atomic power plant. The old slugs probably will be sent to the Arco, Idaho, atomic test center to determine exactly how much farther the Nautilus could have traveled on the original fuel.

It was just about two years ago that the Nautilus set forth on the first atomic-powered voyage in history by going down the Thames River from Connecticut into the Long Island Sound.

Since that date, Jan. 17, 1955, the Navy has built or has in the planning stages 18 more atomic powered craft, including a giant carrier and a missile cruiser.

The Nautilus has surpassed the hopes of its most ardent backers in performance and endurance.

Just how far she has traveled is a closely kept secret, but the Navy has said it has cruised more than 50,000 miles, much of that distance submerged.

Chou Arrives in Moscow for Talks On Red Problems
MOSCOW (AP)—Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai arrived here today for three days of high-level talks on problems ranging from Hungary to the Middle East and the Eisenhower doctrine.

Chou was met at the airport by such Communist leaders as party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, Premier Nikolai Bulganin and former Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

It was Chou's first visit to the Soviet Union since June, 1952, when he helped draw up a series of Sino-Soviet economic and political agreements.

Western observers speculated that Chou might be asked to throw the support of Red China to the Soviets' return to the iron-fisted policy of Josef Stalin in dealing with satellite nations.

Northern House Democrats Plan Own Program
WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of Northern House members plans to issue its own "Democratic legislative program" before President Eisenhower presents his program to Congress next Thursday.

Their strategy is to go on record first with a program more liberal than the one they expect the President to propose.

Leaders of the group are secretly circulating a statement which, for one thing, calls for a strong civil rights program. The Northerners are bypassing Southern Democrats in their attempt to get enough endorsements to make issuing the document worthwhile.

And so far, they have not cleared the proposed program with Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.).

Informants said the program also proposes a big school construction program, revision of the Taft-Hartley Act, extending coverage to additional workers under the minimum wage law and permanent liberalization of immigration laws.

It also calls for a U. S. plan to try to end colonialism by extending foreign aid to countries which give up their overseas possessions.

Hearing at Carmi Is Postponed
CARMi, Ill. (AP)—A hearing on a motion to dismiss a complaint against the Carmi city administration has been postponed indefinitely.

Trafton Dennis, Harrisburg, attorney for the Carmi civic improvement organization which brought the complaint against the city officials, said Mrs. John Renfro, chairman of the organization, was on vacation.

The complaint deals with the organization's allegation that city officials have used funds from municipally owned utilities for operation and maintenance of the utilities.

Mrs. Chas. Naumer Dies at Eldorado
Mrs. Frances Naumer, age 80, and the widow of the late Charlie Naumer died today at 11:30 a. m. in an ambulance while on the way to the Pearce hospital in Eldorado.

She was preceded in death by a son, George, and her husband. She is survived by a granddaughter, Mrs. Jeanette Mudd of St. Louis, and three great-grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Martin funeral home from where funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Hawks' Coach Resigns
ST. LOUIS (AP)—William (Red) Holzman resigned today as coach of the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

Holzman, one of basketball's finest set-shots at City College of New York and later as a pro player with Rochester and Milwaukee, was permitted to quit as boss of the St. Louis NBA entry. It has been apparent for some time that owner Ben Kerner has been dissatisfied with the team's showing and ready to make a change.

Legislature to Meet Wednesday

crease of about 64 million dollars in state aid for schools to maintain the aid formula which guarantees a state-local spending level of $200 per pupil per year.

Rep. Charles W. Clabaugh (R-Champaign), chairman of the commission, also said it will seek a new 12 million-dollar state revolving fund from which impoverished and overcrowded school districts can borrow for classroom construction.

Institutions Need Funds
Stratton has said he may recommend a 150-to-200 million-dollar bond issue to provide needed buildings at state colleges and universities and welfare institutions with out dipping into the short general revenue funds.

But Welfare Director Dr. Otto L. Bettag said his department alone should have about 300 million dollars for new buildings and improvements on existing facilities.

Stratton has said he will introduce his own program for reform of the state fiscal setup in the wake of the Hodge scandal. The governor is studying the Morey Jenner report on the scandal which would eliminate the auditor and treasurer as elective offices, provide for corrupt practices legislation on political campaign spending and establish legislative post-auditing of all state spending.

Stratton also will try again to win passage of some type of judicial reform, a fixed state speed limit law, and will support an amendment for annual rather than biennial sessions of the Legislature.

Hi Gang!

Well, Christmas is over and it's time to look forward to a wonderful new year. It's also time for me to climb down off my old typewriter stool, remove the "press card" from my bonnet and pass the column down to a younger gal. As a sort of Christmas present I have given the job to my good friend Linda (Brenda Star) Rude. There comes a time when you get too old and busy to get all the things you want done so I'm giving the column to someone with lots of fresh ideas... good luck Linda and I'll be your best reader.

Apologies! In the last column I made a mistake and I want to take this last opportunity to make it right. I want to relist the chaperones for November under the right organization... the American Legion Auxiliary. The chaperones are as follows: Juanita Nash, Louise Bishop, Freda Keltner, Dolly Johnson, Ardis Tate, Coral Schwartz, Lily Wing, Ruth Rankin, Hazel O'Neal, Dorothy Salus, Grace Stricklin, Gertrude Wendling, Thelma Hill, Edith Evans, Nelle Wheatley, Hettie Barter, Marian Humm, Bonnie Lee Pankey. Thanks again and I'm sorry for the mistake.

The Delta Theta Tau (active chapter) chaperoned for the month of December. They are as follows: Peggy Ozmert, Mrs. Denzil Pearson, Norma Barter, Mrs. Louis Murphy, Barbara Thompson, Mrs. Donald Darnell, and Mrs. Robert Rushing. Thanks also to that organization for their help with Teen Town.

I guess it's about time to retire so... so long and thanks for reading my column and keep reading it because Linda can type up some mighty interesting news. Joan

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Put off doing it until tomorrow... you've made enough mistakes today. (Beat you Linda!)

CONSTIPATED?
New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks
without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to s-t-r-e-t-c-h stimulate it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONOID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONOID's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONOID's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONOID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONOID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONOID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONOID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98¢ for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2¢ per tablet.

Wildcats Beat Carterville, 55-30; 13th Win

Carrier Mills experienced no difficulty with Carterville Saturday night and easily rolled to victory number 13, 55-30. The game was played at Carrier Mills.

The winning Wildcats, playing their usual strong defensive game, were slightly ragged on attack and coupled with Carterville's deliberate offense the game dragged at times. However, it was Carrier Mills all the way as the 'Cats remained in the unbeaten class for the season.

In the first frame the usual running, shooting Wildcats could rack up only nine points and Carterville but six, a low scoring period in modern basketball.

Carrier Mills opened up a little in the second quarter. Early in the period Carterville crawled to within a point, 11-10, of the home team, then the 'Cats scored 11 consecutive points to pull away to a 22-10 lead, but a closing seconds basket by Noakes put Carterville on the losing end of a 22-12 halftime score.

The third quarter was the most productive, point wise, of the game. Carrier Mills scored 20 and Carterville 12 and in the final frame Carterville was held to six points while the Wildcats made 13.

In three of the four periods the Carrier Mills defense held the visitors to six points per quarter.

With 2:15 remaining to be played and Carrier Mills on top 53-30 Coach Willis sent in his reserves. Then, with 1:40 to go and the score unchanged Carterville's second team entered the fray and the only scoring was a couple of free tosses by Williams.

The preliminary game also was won by Carrier Mills, 64-35. Scoring for the Kittens: Bill Smith 10, Taborn 16, Mitchell 9, Manier 10, Nolen 2, Williams 5, Davis 5, Charles Smith 2, Reeder 4, VanHoy 0, and O'Keefe 1.

Carrier Mills will play only one game this week, entertaining Roseville Saturday.

Eldorado Bows Before West Frankfort, 54-48

Eldorado almost came through with another top notch upset Saturday night, but finally bowed before the strong West Frankfort Red Birds 54-48. The game was played at Eldorado.

Following a surprising 64-59 win over McLeansboro Friday, Eldorado started strong against the Red Birds, victor of the Egyptian Holiday tournament. At the end of the first quarter Eldorado claimed a 10-1 lead.

A pressing defense and well operating attack completely swept West Frankfort out of contention in the opening period.

However the bigger, more powerful Red Birds came back as the second quarter started and outscored the home club 16-8 and a halftime Eldorado's lead had been narrowed to a point, 18-17.

West Frankfort maintained its advantage in the third frame and as the final quarter started the visitors had taken command 37-30. Then came a nip-and-tuck fourth quarter. West Frankfort swept to a big lead at one time, then Eldorado rallied and with only :50 to play, Eldorado trailed only 49-46, then West Frankfort took command and won out 54-48.

Florian, West Frankfort's three-year veteran, was the game's top scorer with 23 points. Fequay's 13 was high for Eldorado.

Eldorado will go to Johnston City Friday for a Southern Illinois conference game.

West Frankfort plays two South Seven conference games this week, entertaining Marion Friday and traveling to Centralia Saturday.

John Brodie, the Stanford passing whiz, was slated to lead the amateurs' attack from the quarterback slot. But he was racked up in the second quarter and Notre Dame's Paul Hornung was moved over from the fullback position to fill the gap.

The Collegians finally got on the scoreboard when Hornung started passing. A toss to Pitt's All-American end Joe Walton netted 34 yards in the second period and the College All-Stars only first half touchdown. The halfway edge was 18-7.

Hornung was voted the outstanding back and Bob Tonneff of the Forty Niners was named the outstanding lineman.

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illini got another chance tonight to prove they were not miscast as favorites for the Big Ten basketball championship.

Coach Harry Combes' quintet blew an opportunity to support the experts' view when it fell victim to a 91-88 surprise victory by Minnesota Saturday night.

The Gopher win was ranked as a startling upset by everybody but the fighting Minnesota squad and possibly Combes, who kept saying right along that this Illinois five was not destined for the title.

Despite the opening setback, the Illini, who meet Iowa tonight, were far from out of the conference chase. Iowa lost its first conference game last season to non-contender Michigan State and then went on to cop the crown.

Last-Half Outburst

The Minnesota ambush was led by 6-3 forward Jed Dommeyer, who popped in 27 points in the second half after going scoreless before the intermission. His scoring outburst gave the Gophers sufficient margin to survive a last minute rally by the Illini.

Jackie Robinson Doooms New York Giants' Hopes of Preventing His Retirement

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants' last-ditch efforts to prevent Jackie Robinson's retirement from baseball were doomed today by Jackie's statement he wouldn't play again "for a million dollars" and his anger at the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Robinson disclosed during the weekend he is quitting his historic career in baseball for even more lucrative work with a restaurant chain and a national magazine.

"I can't imagine any conditions under which I would change my mind," Robinson insisted. "That goes especially after what I read Vice President Buzby Bavasi of the Dodgers said about me the other day."

The 36-year-old Robinson, first Negro in organized baseball, was brimming over with anger at Bavasi even as he announced his departure from the diamond. Bavasi was quoted as saying Robinson treated the press unfairly in concealing his retirement plans from Dec. 12 until last Saturday, when they were announced through a magazine (Look). Bavasi added, "You fellows (newspapermen) will find you've been tooting the horn for the wrong fellow."

Thought Bavasi Friend

"I thought Bavasi was a better friend of mine than to say that," said Robinson in angry tones. "Oh well, it's not the first time he popped off without knowing what he was talking about."

Before Bavasi's remarks were made known, Robinson had been quoted as saying he might return to baseball if the president of his new company, the restaurant chain, so desired. But now Jackie insists, "I'm through playing ball, period."

Robinson admitted he "had to mislead" reporters about his plans when his trade from the Dodgers to the Giants was announced on

Illini, Upset by Gophers, 91-88, In Big Ten Opener, Faces Iowa

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illini got another chance tonight to prove they were not miscast as favorites for the Big Ten basketball championship.

Coach Harry Combes' quintet blew an opportunity to support the experts' view when it fell victim to a 91-88 surprise victory by Minnesota Saturday night.

The Gopher win was ranked as a startling upset by everybody but the fighting Minnesota squad and possibly Combes, who kept saying right along that this Illinois five was not destined for the title.

Despite the opening setback, the Illini, who meet Iowa tonight, were far from out of the conference chase. Iowa lost its first conference game last season to non-contender Michigan State and then went on to cop the crown.

Last-Half Outburst

The Minnesota ambush was led by 6-3 forward Jed Dommeyer, who popped in 27 points in the second half after going scoreless before the intermission. His scoring outburst gave the Gophers sufficient margin to survive a last minute rally by the Illini.

In other Big Ten openers Purdue edged Michigan State 72-71, Ohio State beat Iowa, 72-60, Northwestern overpowered Wisconsin 75-54, and Indiana whipped Michigan 73-68.

Purdue Coach Ray Eddy's sophomore hopefuls hung up their seventh victory in eight starts. Sophomore guard Charles Kehrt bagged the winning basket with 10 seconds to go as Purdue came from behind for the second time to down Michigan State.

In winning its opener against the Badgers, Northwestern equalled its entire conference win record of last season. Easily the most improved team of the season, the Wildcats moved in front and stayed there. Dick Mast, senior guard, and Phil Warren, sophomore forward, netted 20 and 19 points respectively for the winners.

Fills Freeman's Shoes

Frank Howard, rapidly stepping in to fill the void left by the departing Robin Freeman, sank 24 points in helping the Buckeyes start the race with a victory. Iowa's Dave Gunther, top marksman for his team with 22 points, tied a home court record by sinking 10 consecutive free throws.

Indiana kept clean its record of never having lost a conference opener when a last minute scoring surge gave the Hoosiers their win over Michigan in a game viewed by a Midwest television audience.

In addition to the Illinois-Iowa clash tonight, Wisconsin is at Indiana, Michigan at Michigan State, Purdue at Ohio State and Notre Dame at Northwestern.

Stonefort Meets Crainville in Creal Springs Tournament

Stonefort is playing Creal Springs in a grade school basketball tournament being held at Crainville this afternoon, with game time set for 3 o'clock.

Friday night Stonefort won a pair of games at New Burnside, taking the preliminary game 33-11, then coming back with a 47-40 varsity verdict.

Leonard Smith was high for the winners with 16 points, followed by Bert Mitchell with 14, Frank Miller 8, Richard Lewis 5 and Gary Randolph 4.

Other games on the Stonefort schedule has New Burnside at Stonefort Jan. 17 and Colp Attucks paying a visit Jan. 24. On Feb. 1 Stonefort plays a return game at Colp Attucks.

A DOCTOR for BLUE JAY COVE

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

Copyright 1956 by Elizabeth Seifert. Distributed by NEA Service.

THE STORY: Dr. Alex Ward has taken a residency at the Knapp hospital. The institution is run by Francy, wife of the late Dr. Knapp. Francy is not a physician but handles the business details and continually fights with the staff.

VI

Mildred Muir's nod answered Sue's look. "I—I wrote another check for the full amount," she said breathlessly, "and sent it to Dr. Pagano. Today—he returned both of them. I told Mrs. Knapp that we must send back the larger one."

"Of course," Sue agreed. "Francy . . ."

"Oh, you all make me tired. The man's done us, and you're helping him. I can remember when doctors in town were glad to get $5 to come up here and hold an ether case over a patient's nose."

Her self-assurance restored, she went out of the office, a smiling, outgoing, pleasant young woman. Alex thought she was just that as he came toward her along the hospital corridor.

"I understand there is employment here?" he said gravely. "For a veteran with medical experience . . ."

"Yeah, but if he keeps on observing bridegroom's work hours," Sue answered in kind, "I'm not sure there's much future to the position."

He juggled his armful of white linen, and his bag.

"You'll have an office," she told him, leading the way to the cubicles behind the reception desk. As she saw him installed, she mentioned the "hassle" they'd had with Francy that morning.

"But, Sue, she can't do things like that!"

"She does do 'em. What's more, she's laying for you. She's going to tell you all about it. And you're expected to agree with her."

"I won't," he said determinedly.

At four, Sue returned to her cottage. Bill greeted her with a charge at her knees, and a gabble of unintelligible talk.

"I'm going to change," Sue told Cleophas, her colored maid, hugging the baby. "And then I'll take Bill off for at least an hour. If you have any marketing for me to do . . ."

She showered swiftly, and changed into light blue denim, a red bandana knotted at her throat. She put small Bill into his canvas sling in the car, took Cleophas' list, and started out.

She found Cass on the side porch. Cass said eagerly that she'd love to drive to market with "the Knapps."

Bill greeted her with a pudgy fist against her cheek. "Hi, fella!" Cass said to him.

Sue said she'd take Cass for a quick tour of the town before marketing.

With interest Cass looked at the flower-gay lawns, the shaded verandahs. "I took a walk this morning," she said. "I went down to the river. Afterward, Mrs. Ward told me that nobody ever walked down that way."

"Better call her Aunt Cordy, hadn't you?"

"She suggested that. I can't call her 'mother'."

"Not if you have one of your own," agreed Sue.

Cass settled down to enjoy the companionship which was offered her. "It was lovely down at the river. The trees hung low to the water and the sunlight came thru the leaves in spangles, all green and gold, and citron, and brown."

Sue glanced at her. "You must have been looking at the creek," she said. "It's fairly wide at the mouth—"

"Well, perhaps. But there were boats—"

"And that creek can make like a river if we have any amount of rain."

Cass glanced at her, but neither young woman cared to discuss those things. Instead, Cass told of her day's other activities.

"I was busy. But tomorrow . . . that's going to be different, I'm afraid."

"And you're used to being busy."

"Oh, sure, I was a working girl. And most brides have a house to keep—"

"Yes, they do. Perhaps Alex shouldn't have taken you to Aunt Cordy's."

"If not, we'll make a change. I don't suppose he gave much thought to it, just followed the line of least resistance."

"Alex, you know," she told Alex's wife, "has never actually served at House Springs. He did his internship and his residency in the east, then went into the Navy."

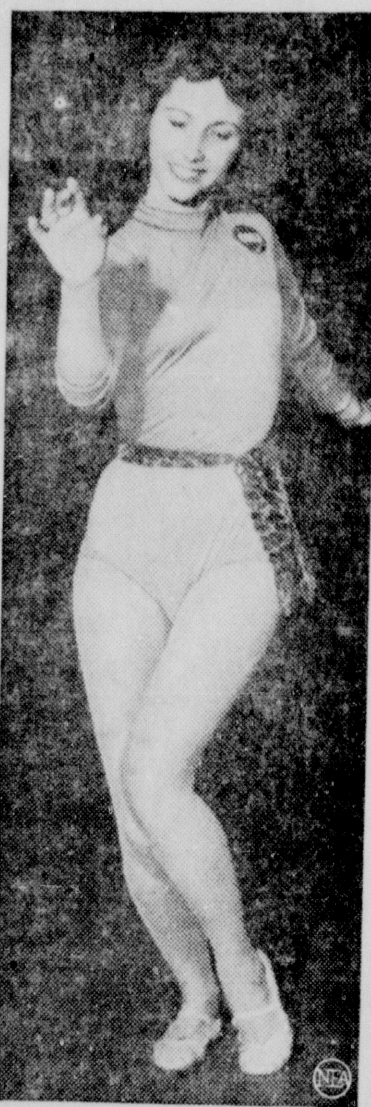

"Yes, I know that," said his bride. "But I'm still pretty vague about the work there will be for him to do here," she confessed.

"He must have got some very good training in plastic surgery while he was in the Navy. He did a fine job on a graft today. The man has an exceedingly 'thin' knife."

"Yes, but he wants to train in the psychology side of such things, or maybe I mean psychiatric. He hasn't had any specialized training there. And shouldn't he? I mean, he's young, and I'm able and willing to work while he . . ."

"While you don't have any young Bills yet," Sue helped her. "I know what you're thinking, Cass. You're thinking that this is a small town, a small hospital. And of course that's true. Named Virgin Islands

Christopher Columbus named the largest of the Virgin Islands Holy Cross (Santa Cruz, in Spanish) and the others Santa Ursula and Once Mil Virgines, in honor of St. Ursula and the 11,000 Virgins.

"Bowery" Trail

The name Bowery in New York City dates back to Dutch colonial days. An Indian trail was known as Bowery Lane because it connected Peter Stuyvesant's farm (or "bouwerig") with New Amsterdam.

Two cannon balls from the siege of Yorktown, Va., are still imbedded in the walls of the Nelson House there. The owner himself, American General Thoma: Nelson, ordered the shots fired, knowing that Lord Cornwallis was using the house as headquarters.

the memorial stones built into the walls. These include a stone from a library in Egypt, a bust of Shakespeare and inscriptions in Chinese and in Welsh.
